Here are Some Common Frustrations When Learning to Play the Big Uke:

- "I have a baritone ukulele but can't find any tutorials on it?"
- "When I try to play my baritone with youtube videos it doesn't sound right."
- "Are the chords the same on the baritone ukulele as the soprano, concert or tenor ukulele?"
- "I have tried learning on my own with books and youtube and my playing hasn't improved for months?"
- "I don't have time. I have kids and a full-time job. I would love to sit and play ukulele all day but let's face it, I only have about 20 minutes a day to fit in practice with all my other responsibilities."

DOES ANY OF THIS SOUND FAMILIAR?

Learning to play the Baritone Ukulele can be challenging and, at times, frustrating. Self-taught musicians often develop bad habits that actually hinder their ability to grow and improve. They soon get discouraged and quit.

Having a professional show you how to correctly play can do wonders for accelerating your growth as a player and musician. Instructors are expensive and difficult to find.

With over 30 years as an educator and master instructor, Terry Carter will bring his proven teaching method that has helped thousands of people learn the ukulele, many just like you.
